

panorama

The Panorama control displays a view of items that can be panned side to side.

The Panorama control wraps from the last section to the first section and vice versa. Use this effect to properly design the flow of your app. t's a full-screen container and navigation model for an app. The Panorama control is portrait orientation only. There is no landscape support for the Panorama control. Don't use Pivot controls inside Panorama controls or vice versa. You can, however, link items in a Panorama control section that takes the user to a Pivot control.

Elements of a panoramic app serve as the starting point for more detailed experiences. Your goal should be to give users a visually rich content presentation.
